

From: Jonathan Ploudre
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 12/9/01 5:43pm
Subject: Microsoft Settlement

I think it is vital for Microsoft to be held accountable for it's actions. The currently proposed settlement seems to let them off easy.

If Microsoft is going to donate to schools, the schools should get to decide what they want to do with the money. Microsoft should donate cash -- not software which has no physical value.

It seems odd to me that Microsoft gets to expand its realm by donating when we are trying to prosecute them for monopolistic behavior.

--

Jonathan Ploudre
Fourth Year Medical Student @ ETSU